Dear Parent (s) / Caregiver (s),

As our Site Base Team and I were collecting the list of things that we need to complete, it became apparent to us that the end of the year is nearly upon us.

Isn't it amazing how quickly this year has passed? I can't help but marvel at the progress the children have made in their new style of learning on-line. Such growth to me is nothing short of a miracle—it must make one proud and pleased to have had a role—it humbles and moves us to understand the term 'bittersweet', as we watch our children grow.

While we teach our children what they must learn, in turn, we learn with and from them. We learn how to be better people, better educators, and better parents, in large part, due to the children around us. We need to continue growing with them, learning from them and guiding them as they get older. Parents are their children's first and most important teachers. The role seems more clear cut when they are very young and need help with just about everything—from practicing how to tie their shoes to looking both ways before crossing a street. Remember, when it comes to helping children grow as learners, our partnership together helps to make our children successful!

A Proud Principal,

Patricia R. Sotero
